ALL BIDS OFF.

Contract cancelled for the Public Building at Richmond.

The contract for the completion of the Richmond Public Building which was awarded to L. L. Leach & Son, Chicago, some weeks ago has been cancelled by the Supervising Architect, and all the other bids rejected.

New bids will be advertised for, but not until after the meeting of Congress. It seems that the Richmond building could not be completed in accordance with the original plan, and an additional appropriation made by the last Congress has proved insufficient.

In order to complete the building in stone within the appropriation on story would have to be cut off or the remainder of the building be of brick, and, as this was not satisfactory to Mr. McCrory, all operations have been suspended.

HOME MISSION WORK.

What It Has Accomplished in the West End of Mayville.

Some time ago the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Central Presbyterian Church, headed by Mr. and Mrs. John M. Scott, started a mission work in the First Ward.

It wasn't long until the people for whom it was intended became interested, and the cry was for a suitable room in which there could be meetings held every night.

The building at the corner of Second and Third streets was soon secured, and the second floor was fitted up and the work then began in earnest.

Night and day almost have the good people toiled in the interest of those people who are not gifted as most of us are, until week before last, when Rev. Joe Geis was secured and a protracted meeting began, to last only one week, as Mr. Geis had to leave for his own field.

Rev. J. M. Evans, who came home to spend several weeks with his family, consented to preach a week, and last Saturday night the people, who had become pretty well acquainted with the ideas of religion, asked to become a regular church organization.

Yesterday morning they were given their choice as to what denomination they desired to have the proposed church go in with, when thirty-two signified their willingness to enter the Southern Presbyterian Presbytery of Boone, and at last night's meeting the number was swelled to fifty, and accordingly there will be a Presbyterian Church grow out of what some people said would be a fizzle.

This is a genuine home mission work, and these people should be commended for their work.

THE SERVICE OF RICHES.

The Man Who Makes a Fortune Not a Public Enemy.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The demagogues and sensationalists are fond of asserting that the wealth of our country is a menace to its welfare and prosperity.

They have figures at their tongues' ends to show that as riches accumulate the interests of the people are jeopardized, and influences of mischief introduced.

According to their theory, the man who makes a fortune is a public enemy. They refuse to acknowledge the least merit in millionaires, or to concede that wealth is ever used in any other than a selfish and hurtful way.

The effect of such talk is to create a prejudice in the minds of the masses against those who happen to possess large amounts of money, and to put out of sight certain facts that justify a more favorable view.

It is not true, as these individuals proclaim, that wealth represents only a grasping instinct and a disposition to oppress the poor. On the contrary, the fact is manifest proof that it stands largely for a kind of service that is generally advantageous.

All the great enterprises which provide comforts and conveniences for the public are based upon aggregation of capital, and could not otherwise exist. The railroads, the steamships, the telegraph lines and other important agencies of civilization would be impossible in the absence of wealth to construct and operate them; and the same is true of all of the big manufacturing concerns which furnish employment for so many wage-earners and produce articles of common necessity and desire at such reasonable prices.

It is an undoubted fact that most of the fortunes in this country have been made by means that were directly beneficial to society.

The wealth of the United States is not hoarded, but invested in forms of business that open up the opportunities of all classes and promote general prosperity. It is not to the interest of the rich to retard commercial and industrial development, and prevent the masses from getting along in the world. The value of the services rendered by the success of the enterprises depend upon the steady improvement of the condition of the people. They have nothing to gain by limiting or embarrassing the sources from which they derive their profits.

There are individual capitalists, to be sure, who deserve condemnation for evil practices, but it is not true that the capitalists as a class are conspirators against the common welfare. They fully understand that they cannot afford to neglect the interests of the laborer, which they have helped to rear and which is at once both their assurance of protection and their promise of future advantage. It is absurd to suppose that they are anxious to spread poverty and misery, and that they are bent upon to invite misfortune for themselves in the depreciation of values and the lessening of profits. We must credit them with ordinary intelligence, and not accept the idea that they are willing to sacrifice their own interests in order to bring calamity upon the people.

There is another aspect of the matter that should receive more attention than it usually gets, and that is the familiar charge that rich men are indifferent to the claims of charity and philanthropy. They do not render as much service as they should in those respects, perhaps; but neither do they fall so far short of their duty as is commonly insisted. A recent statement by the great and good questioner to public bodies during the present year shows that the liberal sum of $10,434,150 was thus applied. Of this amount, the colleges received $4,075,750, the hospitals $1,580,000, the Churches $758,000, the libraries $308,000, and art galleries and similar institutions $3,822,400. This aggregate, if we have observed, represents an average distribution of about $5,000,000 per month, or at the rate of $84,000,000 per year, to religious, charitable and educational purposes, and it is estimated that these figures represent the average rate of such contributions during the decade. There is surely something to be said for the wealthy people who have manifested such a general interest in the welfare of the community.

It will not do to rail about the alleged close-fistedness of the capitalists when we have such proof of their regard for the obligations of benevolence.

The faults of the wealthy, like those of the less fortunate, are not to be counted by the number, but by the weight they exert for their good deeds, and a gentling of judgment in proportion to the value of their service.

APPEAL FROM CHINA.

The American Minister Blamed For His Official Neglect.

President E. H. Pearce of the Kentucky Wesleyan College at Winchester has just received a stirring letter on the recent Chinese outrages from Dr. C. F. Reid of Shanghai, China, Presiding Elder of the Shanghai District of the M. E. Church, South.

Dr. Reid is a citizen of Winchester when in the United States, and all who know him unhesitatingly declare that his statements are worthy of the fullest consideration by the American people.

His appeal has been put on the wires by the Associated Press, and will be read from one end of the country to the other. Following is Dr. Reid's letter:

AN APPEAL FROM CHINA.

SHANGHAI, August 10th, 1895.

Only two weeks ago today I sent you an account of the Szechuen outrages, and today I am sending you accounts of the massacre at Kuching. Had our Minister acted promptly and adequately in the first instance the second would probably not have occurred, and we should have been spared the spectacle of eight young and consecrated women dragged from their beds and brutally massacred; helpless infants killed to death, and a few survivors of the blood-bath, and his people.

I am sending you these accounts in the hope that you will use them where they will do the most good. I wish I could put a copy in the hands of every editor, every Congressman and every other man who has any interest in the welfare of the church or the honor of his country.

We don't ask for revenge, but we do ask for justice and the protection which every American has a right to demand. No civil nation has a right to (to) this sort of humbling treatment.

Foreigners in China are unanimous in the belief that a little prompt and vigorous action would at once put an end to these things.

I have not told all hope of help from the Legation at Peking and we are now appealing directly to Washington. Will you not help us? Unless something is speedily done we shall have to abandon all our interior work, which represents the lives of thousands of Christians.

In our opinion the action required at this time is the appointment of a strong commission, with such rank as will enable them to try and fix the guilt of the highest officials. To punish a few coolies would be worse than useless. We must go to the source of these troubles, which is found in some of the highest officials in the Empire.

Please excuse the haste with which I am writing; these are busy days. Yours fraternally, C. F. Reid.

KENTUCKY REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

We are opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver, believing that it would invade the country in financial ruin. We believe in a sound currency and in the use of both gold and silver for currency, provided always that a dollar in the hands of the public is as good as a dollar in the hands of the government.

We favor a tariff so regulated as to protect the interests of all classes of our citizens upon articles that may be successfully manufactured or produced in this country, thus insuring good wages to the laborer and a home market to the producer; and in connection therewith, we favor the re-establishment of the customs tariff, if necessary, to protect the interests of the laborer and the producer, and to secure the highest possible tariff on all goods imported from foreign countries.

We favor an American policy which will protect American and American interests in any part of the world at all hazards and will sympathize with struggling Republics rather than with tyrannical monarchies.

Uncle Sam's Shortage.

The deficit in the National Treasury for the first 65 days of the present fiscal year is $13,607,361.75.

The New York Post, in a recent issue discussing the subject which forms the heading of this article, says that there has been a marked decline in drunkenness, and it claims that it is due to moral reaction not to Prohibition, but to the development of industrial standards which render it impracticable for men to retain good employment if they indulge too freely in the use of intoxicants.

Doubtless there is much in this claim. The world has changed very greatly since the days when it was considered proper for gentlemen to drink one another under the table. The change which has come over public opinion in regard to such matters has been a kind of moral reaction, but itself probably had its origin in those industrial changes which have rendered it impracticable for men to drink to excess and maintain themselves in the struggle for success. There is a higher standard of morality in nearly every walk of life than formerly, and public opinion frowns upon

A CIRCULAR

To the Cotton Growers of the Southern States

By President Lane of the Cotton Growers' Protective Association.

All Possible Causes, Except Frosts, Have Combined to Make the Crop Below the Average. This Will Cause a Material Advance in Price.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 6.—Hector D. Lane, president of the Cotton Growers' Protective Association, has issued a circular to the southern cotton growers which appears Monday. He says:

In the discharge of my duty to you, as the president of your association, I have personally examined the cotton fields as far as one man can reasonably do so, and have received many communications from entirely reliable sources in every part of the southern cotton region. The crop is now as above, and in all save a few localities, is below the average. All possible causes, except frosts, have combined to produce this result, the causes varying with the locality—drought, rust, boll worms, excessive late and abundant. It is generally three weeks late, and in such a condition that a frost at the average date would be disastrous before the time of maturity. The plant is notably deficient in fruit, and the bolls are small and badly developed.

I do not pose as a statistician and do not make any accurate forecast of the result of the crop but from what I know of the present crop conditions, I venture the opinion that the average yield of the cotton crop will be about 7,000,000 bales, while 8,500,000 bales is by no means improbable. The English and European spinners who purchase the majority of the American crop and upon whose necessities to purchase we are largely dependent for prices have been induced by their recent artificial professional crop estimating representatives, Mr. Sell and his able associates, to believe that the official reports of crop conditions and acreage are untrue, and that the supply of cotton will be ample and that present prices are abnormally high.

In my humble judgment, if the consumers of cotton here and abroad believe that the maturing of this crop has been a strong probability of being below seven millions, there would be a material advance in the price of cotton. Clearly in the presence of a great trade revival, the southern farmer ought to capture his share of the harvest of high prices. No country can take the place of supplying the world with cotton as the south. He is not like wheat or corn. Whenever the sun shines and the rain falls, what can be grown. The American cotton belt is not a general, and has no counterpart on the earth.

The present situation is entirely under your control. The entire spinning capital of the world, an aggregate five times greater than the combined wealth of the hotel-keepers, is arrayed against you, and under their banner march a platoon of speculators and financiers, ready to do anything to keep the price of cotton down. The Manchester Guardian boasted last week England did not care if the farmer owned only the land on which he grew cotton, but the cotton he produced.

This guerilla band of speculators and financiers would have taken even his men away from him and argued that it was his duty to keep his cotton in the hands of his four months. My earnest advice, therefore, is to market your cotton with reasonable intelligence. Do not rush it all forward between now and Christmas. Do not press it for sale except where absolutely necessary. The spinners must have your cotton; their mills are going with profitability, and the less the cotton is sold, the more they will be forced to consider. Husband your cotton until they need it, and then you will get what it is worth, according to the true and undistorted operation of the laws of the political economy.

All newspapers in the south are respectfully requested to publish this address.

Your obedient servant,
HECTOR D. LANE,
President American Cotton Growers' Association.

An Eight-Cent Circuit of Ball Players Proposed.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 9.—Robert E. Deady, of Philadelphia, a wealthy man and the backer of sporting events, has written the following letter to different baseball writers.

Parties interested with me control very desirable grounds in this city, and have means to secure the services of players equal to any in the business.

"If believe that an eight-cent circuit could be arranged that would be very profitable and would be willing to pay all visiting clubs on a similar basis if it can be arranged." "Hoping to be favored with your views on the subject, I am,

Very respectfully yours,
"R. E. DEADY."

WIND AND RAIN.

A Portion of the State Normal School Building at Emporium, Pa., Destroyed.

Emporium, Pa., Sept. 9.—A very severe wind and rain storm passed over Emporium about 9 o'clock Sunday afternoon and did considerable damage, although so far as can be learned no lives were lost.

The most damage was done at the State Normal school, the new east wing, which cost $50,000 and was but lately dedicated, being reduced to a mass of ruins. The north gable and was blown in and the roof rolled up like paper and carried off half a block.

The entire inside of Albert Taylor's hall is open to the storm of rain, which still continues. The damage is estimated at about $10,000, and fears are entertained that more wind may yet blow the other walls out, as it now has a full sweep into a comparatively confined space.

The wreck, however, will not interfere with school work, as fifty rooms in the main building yet remain uninjured. A special meeting of the Normal board of regents has been called by wire for Tuesday at 3 p. m.

Considerable other damage was done to the school's wholesale furniture store, which was partially wrecked, and its stock of goods more or less damaged. Basements and cellars throughout the city were flooded. Four inches of water fell in less than two hours.

But milder reports have as yet been received from the surrounding country, where it is feared the damage has been great.

At Hartford, twelve miles southeast of here, several houses are reported destroyed. A Santa Fe bridge, the Tiesle Henry, is dangerously injured.

At Neosho Rapids a church, several dwellings and a liveable barn are reported destroyed. The bridge over the river with one thousand feet of track, is also washed away near Harding.

NEW VESSELS.

Work on Those Under Construction to Be Expedited.

For a Long Time the Delay Was for Want of Armor.

Secretary Herbert Hopes That the Penalties on Contractors Involved in the Failure Will Be Allowed to Stand—On Ships the Rights of Any Arm.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Secretary Herbert Sunday stated that published statements that he had ordered work on vessels under construction to be expedited were entirely correct.

"The ships building in the navy yards have been lagging for years. For a long time the delay was for want of armor, but armor is now being furnished promptly. The Texas and the Maine, the former of which has just been put in commission, and the latter of which will be in a few days, really ought to have been in service months ago. Officials at navy yards naturally desire to keep a regular force steadily employed, and the disposition is to take workmen from the ships that are building and to repair work with them, putting them back when the repair work is completed. Not only have the Texas and Maine been delayed in this practice, but also the monitors, the Terror, the Monadnock and the Puritan. All these ships ought now to be in commission, and I have ordered that they be pushed to completion. Precisely the same reasons which have operated to delay the building of ships at navy yards, naturally influence contractors. They are sometimes tempted to neglect government work and use part of the force on the government ships to do outside work as it comes in.

"The contracts all provide penalties for failure to complete work in time. Penalties for delay have frequently been imposed upon contractors by the navy department, but unfortunately congress has in almost every instance, when it was asked, relieved against these penalties. The effects of such acts is necessarily demoralizing.

"The department has recently given orders to push all work on navy yard ships and has also been urging contractors to increased diligence. It is to be hoped that penalties incurred in the future for delay will be allowed to stand.

"There is really nothing about shipbuilding that now renders it difficult in the United States. No good reason can be given why shipbuilding is not completed with reasonable dispatch, and I am simply insisting on prompt compliance with our obligations. We have already shown that we can build ships and as equal to any in the world, and I hope our shipbuilders, who are now engaged on contracts abroad, will demonstrate to the world that ships can be built not only as well, but as rapidly in the United States as anywhere else in the world. Of course, I am pushing along the manufacture of ordnance and everything else at the same time."

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM!

Driftwood Gathered and Split for Ledger Patrons.

There is a slight rise on the Kentucky.
The Ohio is stationary above, with a tendency to rise slightly.

The Gate City from Ashland with two deck barges of fuel coal, which passed this city Thursday, reached Cincinnati Saturday, having been around between here and that city.

The City of Louisville has been chartered by the Abe Patterson Post of Allegheny, Pa., who are going to Louisville Sunday in a special train Tuesday afternoon, and transfer at once to the City of Louisville. She leaves Tuesday evening, and the members of the Post will be on her during the Encomencement, and return to Cincinnati on her.

The work that has been in progress for the past several months upon the change of the Granddote river is now complete, and the stream is now free from rocks and snags from the mouth to Louisville. These snags have for years proven a source of great loss to timbermen, and a constant barrier to navigation under nearly every condition. Barges may ply the stream in the better stages of water without fear of striking them, and rafts will not be wrecked so frequently as of yore. With anything like a good rise the river will be navigable eight miles.

BIG PROFITS Small Investments.

Returning property will make many rich, but nowhere can they make so much with a short time as by a successful speculation in Grain, Provisions and Stock.

$10.00 FOR EACH DOLLAR INVESTED can be made by our

originated by us. All successful speculators operate on a regular system.

It is a well-known fact that there are thousands of men in all parts of the United States who by speculating in grain, provisions and stock, have made a fortune in a few years, ranging from a few thousand dollars for the man who invests a hundred or two hundred dollars up to $100,000 or more for the man who invests a few thousand dollars.

It is also a fact that those who make the largest profits from comparatively small investments in the plan we have originated, are those who follow through brokers who thoroughly understand systematic trading.

Our plan does not involve on any risk, but covers both sides, so whether the market rises or falls it stands a steady profit that piles up systematically during the season.

that's probably what ails you if you're down in the day time. If you yawn, stretch, and feel too weak to work, and broken up generally, some people may call it "Spring Fever," but you are sick.

But do not be discouraged. Many persons have felt like you do, and have been made well and strong by and what this famous old strengthening medicine has done for others it can do for you.

But what is it that makes Brown's Iron Bitters so good for the health? Any physician can tell you.

Brown's Iron Bitters is pleasant to take. It will not stain the teeth nor cause constipation. See the crossed red lines on the wrapper.

The Monk!

By MATTHEW O. LEWIS, (NOR. LEWIS.)

Mr. Lewis was a member of the British Parliament, and became so popular in England a hundred years ago that it earned for him the title of "Monk Lewis."

It is a fine piece of classic composition, and after being out of print for many years it has been republished from the original text.

It is far superior to "Maria Monk" and lacks of that character.

HIS OWN FATHER.

Intermarriage Results in a Remarkable Relationship.

There has been another marriage between the Rays and Lucases at Deputy, Jefferson County, Ind., and thereby the relationship of these two families is more tangled than ever.

Marion Lucas and Lily Ray have been married and Ray's brother-in-law thereby becomes his son-in-law.

Ray is both his new son-in-law's brother-in-law and father-in-law.

Mrs. Lucas becomes her father's sister-in-law, and her children will become both niece, nephew and grandchildren of her father.

Addison B. Ray, being father of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas, and also their brothers and sisters and being by law a brother to them, becomes his own father.

FOUND THE PLACE.

A Nice Little Story For Bad Little and Big Boys.

The following true story was told a gentleman of this county by Rev. Mr. Beatty of Cincinnati one day this week:

On Sunday last at a church close to Cincinnati at the close of the services a young man, perhaps intoxicated, rode up and in a spirit of irreverence and bravado asked the Minister, who related the occurrence to Mr. B., how far it was to hell.

The Minister being too much shocked and grieved to make reply such a speech, the young man wheeled his horse and rode off in a gallop, but hadn't gone but a few yards when, upon turning a curve in the road, his horse frightened at a pile of rock, and springing suddenly the young man was thrown violently against a stone, striking it with his head, and in an instant was in eternity.

Surely truth is stranger than fiction, and every word of the foregoing is true and may be relied on.
